

I travel alot by car and in the winter time planning ahead really helps on regular radio you can only get local broadcast for the area that your in but with satalite radion you can search by your destination. I urge you to reconsider!!!! I live in the mid-west and travel conditions change rapidly in the winter time x-m's traffic and weather reports make planning travel safer and they do not compete with local weather station broadcast....Local weather is just that local when traveling by car I need to be able to check ahead.Thank you
